July 8-1f.

Mr. R. B. Bonlden, has just returned from Sedalia, Mo. He says that some 75,000 people have emigrated to the South-western portion of Missouri—that many of the emigrants will be without shelter, and perish for food. Corn is worth $2 per bushel in that section.—Cynthiana News.

There are not a few people in the world who seem to think that happiness, health and wealth are to be found everywhere but at home—

They imagine that away off in Missouri, Kansas or Iowa, is situated the promised land, "where care is unknown." In that delightful region, which they have never seen, and of which they have little or no reliable information, their fancy paints a charming picture of abundant harvests, high prices and quickly accumulated wealth. Old Kentucky can no longer support them, and they sell out, "lock, stock and barrel," and start for a new country.

They reach their destination. Instead of friends, they see around them only strange and careless faces.

The customs are as new as the faces.

Instead of the hearty Kentucky manners they meet the chilling, suspicious glances of another people.

In a short time, the wife or some of the children, unaccustomed to the climate, become sick. No friends are there to help do the nursing, so the father must leave the plough and sit by the bed of sickness, until the patient recovers, or until he follows

the form of his darling to the graveyard.

But crops fail even in Missouri and Kansas, and corn goes up to two dollars a bushel or ten dollars a barrel.

Then comes the struggle with hunger and cold through the long and bitter winter; and the late spring finds husband, wife and little ones broken down by suffering and ready to become the easy prey of disease.

Why, then, not stay at home?

Your land in Kentucky, yields the Cuba.

The war in this island continues. The prospects for the rebels are not flattering. They seem to be without clothing, arms or ammunition, nevertheless, they fight on, with regular bull-dog courage. Céspedes and his people are making a laudible effort for their freedom and liberty, and if they do not succeed it will be because of the aid which the Government of the United States is giving old Spain, covertly. A few more battles will decide the contest. The Spaniards are committing outrageous acts upon their enemies. Murdering their prisoners seems to be an act altogether praise-worthy and commendable in all respects.

For the fiendish old Government of Spain, we have no respect whatever. It should have been sunk, many hundreds of years since, in some lost and never to be remembered sea; for there never existed such a barbarous crew of blood-thirsty villains, who have grown and festered into manhood on the surface of God's green earth, and in the sunlight of heaven, as the men who now control that country.

Céspedes and his people have done but one thing for which they deserve commendation—that is the freeing of the slaves. We cannot say that simply the freeing of the negro was wrong, but we heartily condemn the object for which it was done: that of gaining favor with the Republican party of the United States.

Céspedes should remember that a party which has no more truth mixed with its principles, than is found in so called Republicanism of the United States, would not be very likely to keep any part of a promise that might be made to assist him out of a difficulty, especially when that party was not expected to handle any part or portion of the spoils or spoons which might be picked up during the pendency of the difficulty.

Oh! no Mr. Céspedes, the Grand Army of the Republic had a greater, and in their estimation, a much higher principle to study, think and fight for in the last little strife in this country, than the freeing of the negro. Of course the freedom, was the excuse given to the world, for the war, but the main question was the property, &c., which that Army stole from the South.

We hope this astute Cuban, Céspedes, will recall his proclamation, with reference to the negro, and if for no other purpose, to gain the good opinion of decent people of the United States.

Old John Brown.

Ten years ago, on the 16th day of last October, old John Brown, better known as "Oswatimie Brown," with the assistance of twenty men, seized and captured Harpers Ferry. In its seizure, and in his behavior generally through life, he was only carrying out practically, the principles which had been taught him from the pulpits of whang-doodle-God-and-morality hypocritical preachers of the North.

John Brown was a man of courage. The hypocritical rascals, by whom he was taught, were cowards.

Old Brown had but a small brain and all he had was of the worst type. He was a natural born thief and murderer. His ideas never ran upon any other subject. In his raid upon Harpers Ferry, in which he proposed to destroy any person or persons who should offer him any opposition, he planned his operations in the same manner as when stealing horses in Kansas. That was his business—stealing and murder.

On the night following the 16th of October, 1859, Col. R. E. Lee, visited Harpers Ferry with one hundred U. S. soldiers, and made this old Abolition Saint surrender. Lee was then a Colonel of the Federal army, but when the Government passed into the hands of the Brownites, he resigned, and was made Commander and Chief of the Confederate army. All honor to his glorious achievements and immortal name.

On the 2nd of December, 1859—after having been convicted of treason and murder, Brown was hanged in Charleston, Virginia.

It was anxiously believed by good men everywhere, that this determined and glorious act on the part of the Government in hanging old Brown, would silence and put a stop to Abolition stealing and murdering; but not so—they began praying and singing psalms over his old carcass, and so excited themselves and the masses of the vulgar mob of the North, that they soon found themselves in the majority—and then they elevated "the late Lamented old Humburg" to the Presidency, who with his Chums, drenched the country in blood, until he finally, through the Providence of God, was sent off by the same road old Brown had been "marching on," ever since he left Charleston.

The great masses of people of the South—never considered the hanging of old Brown, any great offset to his crimes. They simply believed that it was "rendering unto Caesar the things that were Caesars"—that he should die.

Very many of the people of this republic in the North, now believe and pray to old Brown as a martyr—and talk about him and his virtues in pathetic strains. If the Abolitionists continue to hold him up and sing psalms of glory to his loathsome name, not many years will pass before they will find a rising generation attempting to emulate the acts of this hero of Northern fanaticism. And as the South has been robbed of all her wealth, and her people murdered on a large scale, and the country made a vast wilderness almost, the Brownites will be compelled to steal from each other, and to kill each other, having no South to hate, or Southern people to rob and murder.

(For the Cynthiana News.)

Mr. Editor:—His honor, Mr. M. D. Martin, through the agency of the Democrat of November 25th, makes some bold assertions and imparts some valuable information for which the people of this benighted part of the county were not prepared. He says, "he is informed by the Contractor to remove Worrel's Mill dam, that some parties during one night had made an effort to obstruct the navigation of Main Licking, by filing rocks immediately above and below a temporary obstruction left in the river for the purpose of keeping water off the hands while removing the dam; left also for the accommodation of the neighborhood in getting their grain ground during the late dry spell, through the courtesy of the Contractor."

At the time, the honorable gentleman's reporter communicated the above to him, the water was pouring over the dam at a fearful rate, and certainly, no sane man would have stated in an unqualified manner that obstructions had been placed in the river, unless the three great incentives, which too often influence some men, namely: bad temper, bad judgment and bad whisky. Since the publication of the contractor's report, however, the river has dropped down sufficiently low that any one, no matter how incredulous, could see there had been no obstructions "piled" in below the dam. Let it be understood, that the temporary obstruction was nothing more than the dam itself, which the contractor had partially undermined but had failed to remove. So far as I know to one ever requested him to leave it there. The honorable gentleman, thinks "this spirit of mischievousness is not very commendable to the neighborhood." True enough, if those charges had their foundation in truth; but as everybody thinks the rumor false, no one, except him who retails them gratuitously to the public, is injured by them. We are inclined to think the neighborhood would not undergo any great change for the better if the honorable gentleman should take up his abode herein. The honorable gentleman says, "there are a few individuals living near Worrel's Mill, who are so short sighted as to think the horizon is only five miles from Worrel's Mill, and that Licking river was only made to turn this mill. Individuals who don't know that there is a great Commercial City at its mouth, and that there are persons living on the river above and below them, whose interest demand that this public thoroughfare shall be improved."

Unless we have been misinformed the honorable gentleman not long since was using his influence (?) and ballot against raising the tax for the purpose of increasing the common school fund, thereby endeavoring to lock the storehouse of knowledge from poor children in our county, (and elsewhere,) whose ignorant fathers had given him three votes, either when he as a Democrat was permitted to represent the county(?) in the Legislature, or at an accidental status of another political party came near being Sheriff. Now the honorable gentleman, frankly tells us that we are mistaken! That five miles is not the radius of the circumference of this great world of ours! That there is a little of creation outside this conceived idea of our narrow minds! That there is an addition to this comprehensible, ignorant notion, that Licking river was made but for our purpose! And, that there is a great Commercial City at its mouth! Wonderful! Strange! O days of blissful ignorance, ye are gone! And now, (pardon if you please.)

"Could we but climb where Mortimer has stood, And view the landscape o'er,"

we might understand more about, and receive more light on those important facts which he so kindly broken to us. Ignorant as we are, we are acquainted with the fact, that persons living on the river above and below here are interested in the improvement of this "public thoroughfare," men of good sense and possessors of much capital; consequently the honorable gentleman is on good terms with, and under many obligations to them, and they to him. So those persons are represented what matter it whether you poor, ignorant individuals of Harrison county are represented or not, or whether the State is ever benefited one farthing by the improvement of Lick river? But again, the honorable gentleman says, "I don't know of any people on Main Licking who are less inconvenienced by the removal of any mill dam than the people around Worrel's. There being three Steam Mills that grind wheat and corn, and make lumber in four miles of them. No one individual in this section being farther than four miles from a good Steam mill."

With all our good will, and high appreciation for valuable character found, par excellence in the course of the honorable gentleman's brilliant career of Statesmanship, we must acknowledge he has here assumed a large area of untenable ground, and that to say the least of it, the extent of circle where this area reaches up to embrace the sky, or in other words, its "horizon" is five miles if not more from Worrel's Mill. For two of those mills make lumber, perhaps three months in the year, not by steam power but by water. The other, the one at Havilandville, has no saw attached to it at all. The honorable gentleman asserts that those are good mills; and further, he virtually says they shall grind grain for those persons who are so "little inconvenienced." Those good mills during the Summer and Fall grind about one third of the time: hence we heard that Mondays and Thursdays, or Tuesday and Fridays, or Wednesdays and Saturdays were the grinding days at those mills; while Worrel's Mill, that our great and good Legislator voted from the people, his constituents, was kept busy every day and often of nights grinding grain, hundreds of bushels of which came directly by some one of those good mills with which the honorable gentleman is so well acquainted, and as so accurately described.

As to the "great good" that is to result to all Northern Kentucky" by this improvement, we are willing and waiting, but not watching to see it. Our predictions are, that five years from this date Licking River Navigation will have proved a failure; the people will see that seventy five thousand dollars of the public money has been thrown away; and one of Kentucky's gifted sons, who is endeavoring to leave "footprints on the sands of time," will realize that so far as public or political life is concerned he is laid on the shelf forever.

(For the Cynthiana News.)

Baptism by Affusion.

Mr. Editor:—An article recently appeared in your paper purporting to give the concessions of several learned men in favor of exclusive immersion. Our immersion friends have a way of their own, of quoting authors on the subject of baptism. Wherever they find immersion allowed by a writer to be a valid mode of baptism, they seize upon it at once as an admission in favor of exclusive immersion. This was the style of the article in your paper, above alluded to.

Now, the unfairness of such a mode of quoting authors is repulsive.—This must appear from a moment's reflection. The position of immersionists is, that nothing but immersion is Christian baptism. They claim that the word means nothing else, and that the Apostles practiced nothing else; and that consequently he who is baptized by affusion, is not baptized at all. On the contrary Methodists, Presbyterians, etc., etc. allow that immersion, in the name of the Holy Trinity, is a valid baptism, but that affusion, i. e. sprinkling or pouring, is also valid, and is clearly set forth as being the practice of the Apostles and their successors. Now, this was the position of the authors whom your correspondent quoted to sustain the dogma of exclusive immersion. Hence, the unfairness, not to say dishonesty of taking authors who believe sprinkling and pouring to have been practiced by inspired men, and quoting them in support of exclusive immersion—a dogma which they would have promptly repelled had they been approached on the subject.

You, Mr. Editor, write a book on traveling? In that book you speak favorably of traveling by railroad, by steamboat, by private carriage, and it may be, by velocipede. Now, some fellow who wants to make something out of his velocipede, writes an article to a newspaper, maintaining that the word travel means to go by velocipede; that, that was the most ancient method of traveling that all the lexicographers give that as the meaning of the word travel; and, in support of this opinion, the writer quotes what you have said in your book about velocipedes as a proof that you believe in no other way of traveling, than that of throwing yourself astride a velocipede and kicking "with might and main." Would he represent you, or your book, fairly? Verily not. This is the way that exclusive immersionists quote authors. They never tell us that these same authors believed in, and practiced affusion—a fact which is fatal to exclusive immersion.

I propose giving the readers of your excellent paper, the opinion of the most distinguished men in the church, from the Apostles to the present century, on the mode of baptism.

Justin, Martyr (A. D. 140).—Persons were baptized in the church, at the laver, by sprinkling.

Irenaeus (A. D. 180).—The water was poured on the head of the baptized person.

Clement of Alexandria (A. D. 190).—The custom of Jews was that they should be often baptized upon their couches.

Tertullian (A. D. 200).—Calls the flood, whose waters were poured out, a baptism of the world.

Cyprian (A. D. 200).—Whence it appears that the sprinkling also of water prevails equally with the washing of salvation.

Origen (A. D. 216).—Calls the pouring of water on the altar (1 Kings XVIII, 33, 34), by Elijah a baptism.

Lactantius (A. D. 320).—"Baptism is by pouring."

St. Basil (A. D. 370).—Called the pouring of the water on the altar (1 Kings XVIII, 33, 34), by Elijah a baptism.

Ambrose (A. D. 385).—Speaks of baptism by sprinkling.

Aurelius Prudentius (A. D. 390). He addresses one who "was sprinkled in baptism."

Augustine (A. D. 400).—In his Sermo CXXXVII, addresses those who were "sprinkled that they might come to the communion."

St. Cyril of Alexandria (A. D. 424).—"There has been given to us, as in rain, the living water of holy baptism."

Gennadius (A. D. 495).—"After confession the person is wetted with water."

Here, then, are thirteen names the most distinguished in the early history of the church, each one proclaiming baptism by affusion.

I have been compelled to give very brief quotations from these authors, because you will not have space for more.

I will now begin with authors of more modern date:

Piscator.—"Baptism signifies also in any other way to be tinged, washed or rinsed."

Alstedius.—"The terms baptism signifies both immersion and sprinkling."

Zelenus.—"Baptism signifies dipping, and also sprinkling."

Keckerman.—"Baptism signifies either immersion or pouring."

Schwarzius.—"Baptism, sometimes to sprinkle, to be sprinkle, to pour upon."

Turretinus.—"They that are baptized are sprinkled with water."

Caulon.—"Baptism is administered in the church by sprinkling."

Dr. John Dick.—The symbol in baptism is water which is applied to the body by aspersion or affusion.

Angelus Clavarius (A. D. 1480).—"A sprinkling [in baptism], how little soever it be, is sufficient."

Erasmus (A. D. 1514).—"With us [the Dutch], they have the water poured on them."

Martin Luther (A. D. 1521).—"We administer baptism by sprinkling water upon the subject."

Calvin (A. D. 1561).—"In baptism the water is poured on the subject."

Beza (A. D. 1563).—"They are rightly baptized, who are baptized by sprinkling."

John Milton (A. D. 1648).—"Speaks of pouring the purifying element on the head."

Dr. John Ames (A. D. 1650).—"No one place can be given in the Scriptures wherein baptizo doth necessarily signify either to dip or plunge."

drops of water poured upon me doth signify and seal, and convey to me a right and interest in the benefits of my Saviour's death, as fully as if with Jonah, I were plunged into the main ocean."

Witsius (A. D. 1702).—"We are not to imagine that immersion is necessary to baptism; but it may be performed by pouring or aspersion."

Dr. Watts (A. D. 1711).—"The Greek word baptizo signifies to wash anything properly by water coming upon it, as by sprinkling. Pouring or sprinkling more naturally represents the spiritual blessings signified by baptism."

Wesley (A. D. 1743).—"Baptism is performed by dipping or sprinkling the person in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit."

Dr. Doddridge (A. D. 1744).—"Baptism, the pouring on of water, more naturally represents the pouring out of the Spirit or the sprinkling of us with it."

Dr. Dwight (A. D. 1795).—"I have examined almost one hundred instances in which the word baptizo and its derivatives are used in the New Testament. By this examination it is evident to my apprehension that the following things are true: The primary meaning of these terms is cleansing, without regard to the mode. That affusion, sprinkling or immersion, is included in some of its meanings, but that in some instances it could not be made to signify immersion."

Dr. John H. Rice (A. D. 1825).—"The word baptizo occurs ninety times in the New Testament; of these, sixty-five are undetermined; sixteen favor sprinkling or affusion; two or three make sprinkling morally certain; and of the remaining nine passages not one of them proves immersion."

Here, Mr. Editor, is a list of names, the pride of the church, reaching across eighteen hundred years, testifying against the dogma of exclusive immersion! The men whose names stand in the first four centuries furnish the data for all our ecclesiastical history; and yet immersionists, not knee high, tell you that all the fathers in the church were immersionists!

Very Respectfully,
C. W. MILLER.

The only Reliable Cure for Dyspepsia in the known World.

DR. WISHART'S GREAT AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA PILLS AND PINE TREE CORDIAL are a positive and infallible cure for dyspepsia in its most aggravated form, and no matter how long standing.

They penetrate the secret abode of this terrible disease, and exterminate it, root and branch, forever.

They alleviate more agony and silent suffering than can be told.

They are noted for curing the most desperate and hopeless cases, while every means fails to afford relief.

No form of dyspepsia can resist their penetrating power.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite. It strengthens the debilitated system. It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which serofula breeds on the lungs. It dissolves the mucus or phlegm which stops the air passages of the lungs. Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs and throat, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain and subduing inflammation. It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with positive assurance of its power to cure the following diseases, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure.

Consumption of the Lungs, Cough, Sore Throat, Aged Breasts, Bronchitis, Liver Complaint, Blind and Bleeding Piles, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Diphtheria, &c.

Manslaughter. On Tuesday December 7th, 1899, a difficulty took place in the neighborhood of Mitchell's Mills, in Robertson county, between Wm. Griffith, and Grandville Rogers. A load of shot, wadding and all was fired into the left side of Rogers by Griffith, and from which he died last Friday. After Rogers had received his wound he jumped upon his antagonist, took his gun from him and beat him nearly to death with it. Rogers was a rebel soldier, and the brother of Sam Rogers, who shot a man not two weeks since.

We must be excused for remarking right here, and for the benefit of the administrators of the laws in that county, that already the attention of the public is directed that way to often for the many outrageous and damnable acts committed. Let the good people unite and put a stop to these outlaws.

We say to every young lady, go to dancing school, by all means, and you will learn to be less awkward in every particular in life. A Baptismal Dispute. Just at this time we consider this story essential to the well being and happiness of our readers—especially our young unmarried folks. Beware of the rock on which these people were shipwrecked, and don't take too much of one or the other.

Quite a number of years back, a young gentleman loved, courted, and engaged himself in matrimony, to a beautiful young lady of his acquaintance. He was a Presbyterian, she was a Baptist. While speaking of their expected marriage, the gentleman remarked:

"I am thinking, my dear, of two events, I shall number the happiest of my life."

"And what may they be," remarked the lady.

"One is the hour when I shall call you wife, for the first time."

"And the other?"

"It is when we shall present our first-born for baptism."

"What, sprinkled? Never shall a child of mine be sprinkled."

"But mine shall!"

"They shall, hey?"

"Yes, my love."

"Well, sir, then I can tell you that your babies won't be my babies.—So good night, sir."

The best of Prints at 13 cents per yard, at the Stone Front.

County Court Day Sales. The following sales was made by A. W. Lydick, Auctioneer. Most of sales made on time. Bidding not spirited. Crowd in town good. Day cloudy and damp.

Can it be possible that over Five Million Bottles of PLANTATION BITTERS have been sold during the past year? It is almost incredible, nevertheless it is absolutely true, and is the most convincing proof of their wonderful medicinal and health-restoring qualities. Every family should be supplied with these Bitters, at whatever cost or trouble it may be to obtain them. Be careful that you get the genuine, and that you are not imposed upon by a spurious article.

May happiness and prosperity attend her and her husband through life. Oh! Married love—each heart shall own, Where two congenial souls unite, Thy golden chains bind with down, Thy lamp with Heaven's own splendor bright.

The Great Pictorial Annual. Hostetter's United States Almanac for 1870, for distribution gratis, throughout the United States and all civilized countries of the Western Hemisphere, will be published about the first of January, and all who wish to understand the true philosophy of health should read and ponder the valuable suggestions it contains. In addition to an admirable medical treatise on the causes, effects and cure of a great variety of diseases, it embraces a large amount of information interesting to the merchant, the mechanic, the farmer, the planter and professional man; and the calculations have been made for such meridians and latitudes as are most suitable for a correct and comprehensive NATIONAL CALENDAR.

The nature, uses and extraordinary sanitary effects of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the standard and reliable alternative of more than half the Christian world, are fully set forth in its pages, which are also interspersed with pictorial illustrations, valuable recipes for the household and farm, humorous anecdotes and other original and selected. Among the Annuals to appear with the opening of the year, this will be one of the most useful, and may be had for the asking. Send for copies to the Central Manufacturing Co., at Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the nearest dealer in HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. The BITTERS are sold in every city, town and village, and are extensively used throughout the entire civilized world.

"It Might Have Been." Only a brief space now remains in which it will be possible to secure tickets in the Great Henderson, Ky., Prize Scheme. A fortune is in store for some one, whom the final drawing is soon to take place, will reveal. To be a ticket is to have the power of all; but when the "turn of the wheel" shall have designated the fortunate ones, how many will turn with a sigh and say "It might have been me, if I had only bought a ticket. Let us see, then, what a splendid time and again in every day life. We hear hundreds of people contentedly relating, when they view the prospect of the successful neighbor, that they might have been rich to-day if they had only taken a bold step at the right time. Yes, it all "might have been."

A Card. A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Diseases of the Urinary and Genital Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipe for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, free of charge.

FOUTZ'S
HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS.
This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly refresh and break down and lower applied horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.
It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to the animal, such as FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVY COUGHS, DISTEMPERS, FEVERS, FOUN-DLE, LOSS OF APPETITE, AND VITAL EXHAUSTION. It is used improves the wind, increases the appetite, gives a more and glowy skin, and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine looking and sprightly horse.
To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Bovine Plague, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk, and even twenty per cent, and make the butter firm and sweet.
In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much better.
In all diseases of swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver &c. this article acts as a specific. By putting one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swine, all the diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. It gives in fact, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.
